know what the issues are (you do not want to make a point that appears in the article you didn't read!). Establish the issues you are addressing, make your points, support them, and explain why they matter. This way, you'll have enough to write in two pages.

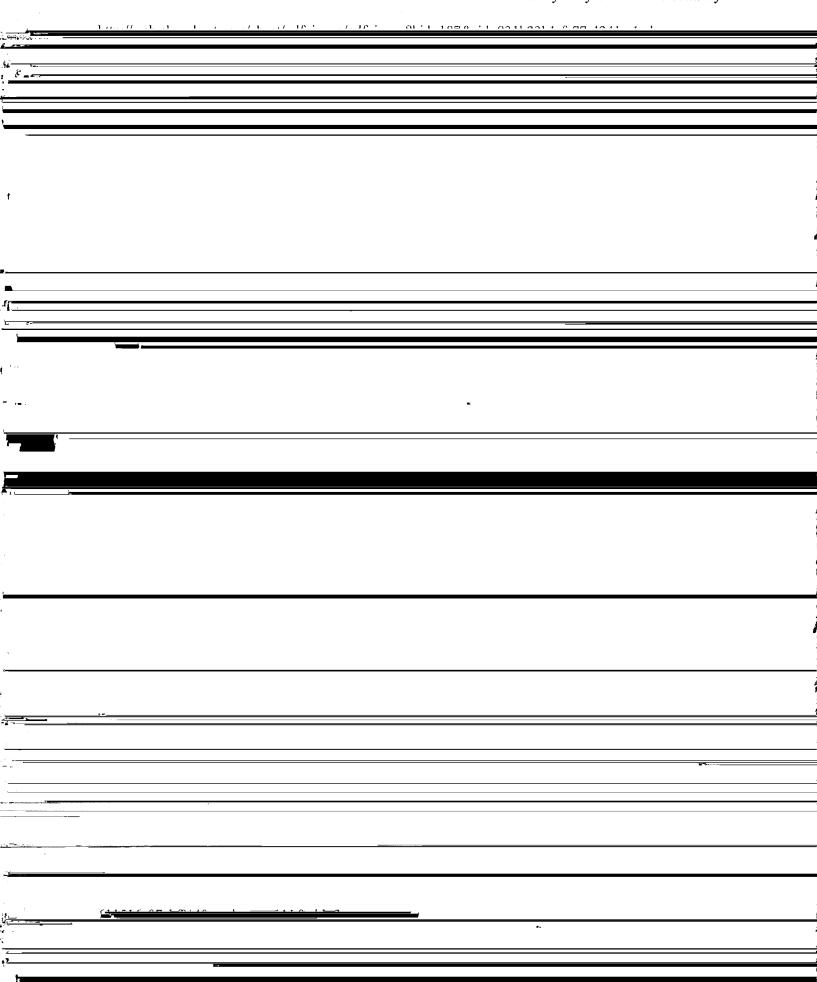

When in doubt, go back to those questions I posed in the previous section on class participation. If you are thinking of these questions each time you do the readings, it shouldn't be too difficult for you to come up with what to write.
