The University of Toledo is a comprehensive state institution of students with a strong research mission. Located on an attractive suburban campus near the Maumee River and Lake Erie, the University of Toledo is less than 100 miles from Ann Arbor, 150 miles from Detroit, 100 miles from Cleveland, and has access to an extensive system of Metropolitan and recreation areas. The University offers competitive salaries, excellent start-up and benefits packages, and is dedicated to faculty and student success. Further information is available at <http://www.utoledo.edu/nsm/chemistry/>. Applicants must submit to <https://jobs.utoledo.edu> a cover letter, curriculum vitae, and a resume.

The University of Toledo is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution. The University is dedicated to the goal of building a culturally diverse and pluralistic faculty and staff committed to teaching and working in a multicultural environment and strongly encourages applications from women, minorities, individuals with disabilities, dual-career professionals and covered veterans.

The University of Toledo does not discriminate in employment, educational programs, or activities on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, ancestry, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, military or veteran status, disability, familial status, or political affiliation. The University of Toledo provides reasonable accommodation to individuals with disabilities.

especially those with expertise in materials chemistry, nanomaterials, thin-film preparation, heterogeneous catalysis, and energy storage applications. A Ph.D. degree in chemistry or a closely related field and a commitment to work with a diverse student population is required. Postdoctoral experience is preferred. The successful candidate will begin their appointment August 1, 2024. We expect to teach in the undergraduate and graduate M.S. and Ph.D. programs and establish and maintain an externally funded research program. Opportunities
