Family Education Rights and Privacy Act

The 1974 Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) is a federal law that protects the privacy of a student's educational record. FERPA applies to all educational institutions receiving funds from the United States Department of Education, from kindergarten through university level. Under FERPA, the Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards may not share the contents of a student's Student Conduct File with anyone other than the student without written consent to do so. Exceptions to FERPA include health and/or safety emergency, or an educational need to know.
